

A view of Sackville Street, Dublin, the centre of the fighting between the Irish revolutionists and troops sent to quell the rebellion. Photo by Bain News Service.

A French underground post in the Meuse district, used also as a lounging, reading and writing room. Underwood & Underwood

The Limit going over the hurdles at the meet of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Hewlett Bay Park.

Underwood & Underwood

At the Rockaway Hunting Club Meet. Left to right — Angier B. Duke, A. J. Drexel Biddle, Mrs. Biddle, E. V. Kane, Mrs. Duke and Stephen Peabody, Jr.

Underwood & Underwood

Mrs. Payne Whitney (centre), Miss Joan Whitney (left) and Miss Flora Whitney at the Rockaway Hunting Club Meet.

Underwood & Underwood

Assembling ammunition for the defence of Verdun.

Exclusive photograph taken by official photographers of the French army.

A real war play. Although a German shell is bursting in the rear of the stage, the French soldiers and the actress seem oblivious of danger.

Exclusive photograph taken by the official photographers of the French army.